THE BACHELOR OF SCIENCE DEGREE IN HISTORY, TECHNOLOGY, AND SOCIETY AT GEORGIA TECH:
Providing an understanding of complex social issues in the context of a liberal arts education

A bachelor’s degree in History, Technology, and Society (HTS) offers an interdisciplinary education in history and sociology. Students enjoy small classes, individualized attention from world-class faculty, and the freedom to shape their own individualized program of study. HTS students report that they love their major!

Graduates of the HTS program have a well-rounded education, strong writing and oral presentation skills, research expertise, and the ability to think critically and analytically.

HTS students study abroad in places such as France, Australia, Spain, New Zealand, and China.

HTS students participate in internships with a wide variety of public and private organizations. Recent internships include:

- Administrative Office of the Courts, State of Georgia
- Jimmy Carter Presidential Library and Museum
- Criminal Investigations Division, Office of the Solicitor General of Fulton County
- Fernbank Museum of Natural History
- Georgians for Clean Energy
- Institute for Paper Science and Technology
- Legislative Offices of the Georgia State Capitol
- United States National Archives and Records Administration
- Potomac Institute for Policy Studies - Lewis and Clark Fellowship Internship

The HTS degree prepares graduates for exciting careers in law, education, business, government, journalism, public relations, and many other fields. Graduates also go on to graduate and professional schools at a variety of premier institutions. Here’s what some of our recent graduates are doing:

- Securities and Antitrust Litigation Attorney
- Ninth Grade Geography Teacher
- Head of a Chinese-foreign Joint Venture in China’s Third Largest City, Tianjin
- Membership Operations Coordinator at the High Museum of Art
- Owner of a Computer Software Firm
- Policy Analyst for Bread for the World
- Attorney Working as Chief Protocol Officer for the State of Georgia
- Human Resource Officer at Turner Broadcasting Inc.
- Medical School Student at Emory University
- Graduate Student in Sociology at Washington State University
- Graduate Student in History at the University of London

Major: History, Technology, and Society
Minors: History, Sociology, and Women, Science, and Technology

www.hts.gatech.edu